

Cagers Play Nodak Quint Here Dec. 20

Basketeers to Open the Season Against North Central Foe
in Central Gym.

GAME STARTS AT 8:00

The Cardinal cagers of the University of Omaha will make their initial appearance of the 1934-35 season next Thursday, December 20, when they tangle with the University of North Dakota at the Central High school gym.

In addition to being the Cards' bow before local fans, the game will also mark their official debut into the North Central Conference and will be the first contest to count in the N. C. C. standings.

The Nodaks, who were also our opening football foe this year, have a strong veteran quint that is considered a strong contender for the North Central title and will be a stiff test for the Redbirds.

Sed Hartman has not definitely announced his starting lineup for the Nodak invasion, but the combinations Silent Sed has been using during practice indicate that

"O" Club Dance to be Tuesday Night

The "O" club dance scheduled for Saturday has been postponed to Tuesday night, December 18, "Wink" Wilkinson, "O" club president, announced Thursday.

The "O" club, composed of all students who have won athletic letters, is sponsoring the dance to raise funds for the purchase of gold footballs for members of this year's championship grid squad. The footballs have always been purchased by the school, but because of a shortage of funds the "O" club is trying to raise the money this year.

The dance will be held in Jacobs' Hall, beginning at 8:30. Tickets are 50 cents per couple.

Cops, Students Barred As Faculty Gangsters Hold Secret Rendezvous

"Flop House Sully" was there. So was "Diamond Lil." "Gas House Gus" was unable to attend. "Bad Bill" and "Kinky Gertrude" from Paree" showed up, too.

These and about thirty other members of the Omaha University faculty attended the annual Christmas party of the school professors held at the Women's Faculty building last week.

In case you don't recognize the names in the first paragraph, permit us to introduce:

"Flop House Sully," alias Dr. E. Earl Sullenger, who has long been interested in tenements and flop houses.

"Diamond Lil," alias Miss Ruth Diamond, who sees to it that the gals don't get too much upholstery on their figgers. Come up 'n see her.

"Gas House Gus," alias Dr. Lyman Harris, who dishes out history, history and more history.

BARN DANCE FEATURE AT ALPHA SIG LAMBDA

The Alpha Sigma Lambda "barn dance" will be held at Jacob's Hall this evening, December 14, with the Colonial Club orchestra playing.

The hall will be decorated to resemble a barn. Brown paper will cover the entire ceiling, and harnesses, horses' collars, and saddles will be hung on the walls. There will be hay and cornstalks around the room to make it look like a real barn, and in one corner an automatic man will sit milking a mechanical cow.

The band will all appear in washed-out overalls and old straw hats, and "milkin' time" is set for 8:30 p. m., according to Ellsworth Perry, president of the pledges.

Longer Exam Plan Explained by Holt

Four-Hour Tests in Eight Days
This Year; Register During Same Time.

This year eight days will be devoted to final examinations instead of the usual four, as has been the custom in the past. The purpose of the extended time for the quizzes is to enable the students to do more in the way of preparation for the tests, explained Dr. Edgar A. Holt.

Previously the exams have been two hours in length and there have been four a day, but the plan now is to hold only two four-hour exams a day. This will cover the course more completely and at the same time will give a longer period of time to the student for study.

During exam week, the regular registration will also be held. The advisers will have their regular office hours, and the students will go to them and arrange their hours and plan their programs for the next semester as usual. Aside from this, there will be no change in registration and the regular routine will be followed.

Christmas vacation begins on December 19 and continues until January 2.

Omaha Uni. Will Play for Titles in Both N. I. A. A. and N. C. C. Loops Next Year

Billotte Predicts New Athletic Era For University

PRAISES GRIDDERS

By BILL BILLOTTE
(World-Herald Sports Staff)

Few of the Omahans who read the bare headlines announcing that the Omaha University Cardinals had accepted an invitation to join the North Central conference realized the years of grueling self-sacrifice and athletic humiliation that former teams have subjected themselves to so that the university might raise itself to its present elevation among schools in this section of the country.

There was that gallant under-trained little band of gridsters in 1927 who for one torturous hour took everything that a strong Chadron eleven could hand them. They came back home with chins up, although the scoreboard read Chadron 117, Omaha 0.

This fall another Omaha football team journeyed to Chadron. And again the Omaha boys took everything the outstaters could dish out. But this year Omaha had a Pearey and a Tyler and nine other men who played their positions equally as well as the gallant kid who evaded five would-be tacklers to make a 40-yard touchdown flip, and Tippy, who received the bullet pass with a broken

Indian Plans Must Be Turned in Feb. 1

Tradition Suggestions to Be Handed in to Miss Diamond
by End of Semester.

All entries for the Indian tradition contest must be turned in by February 1 to Miss Ruth Diamond, a committee, composed of Mrs. C. C. Strimple and Ernie Adams, alumni representatives, Miss Nell Ward, faculty representative, and the student council, will select the best entries. These will be voted upon by the student body during the first week of the next semester.

Any student of the University of Omaha is eligible to enter this contest. The entries for this contest must contain ceremonials for the initiation of freshmen; a fall festival, for homecoming, and a spring festival to replace Gala Day. Names must be suggested for the four classes, for organizations and the pep squad, for the paper, and for the annual.

Songs and yells should be submitted along with suggestions for designs for rings, pins, athletic letter awards, and some idea for band uniforms.

Publication Board Recognizes Ahamo

The Board of Student Publications has recommended to President W. E. Sealock that he appoint a committee to sponsor the Ahamo, comic and literary magazine, as an authorized student publication of Omaha University.

Within two weeks after the appointment of the committee of sponsors the Board of Publications will call for applications from the students for positions on the magazine, according to V. Royce West, chairman of the board.

The Board of Publications welcomed the initiatory work of the editor, Howard Wilcox, and his staff. Wilcox is assisted by Franklin Buxton, Martin Speckter, and Rosella Prall.

The first issue of the Ahamo appeared in the early part of the semester and is published every two weeks.

Entrance Into North Central League Approved

SCHOOL TRIBUTE

By MACY BAUM

Omaha university will compete for athletic titles in two conferences during the coming year, it became known early this week with the definite announcement of the university's entrance into the North Central Athletic Conference.

The school's entrance into the North Central was approved at a meeting of the athletic board Monday afternoon. President Sealock, who attended the annual North Central meeting in Chicago last week, reported to the board on the invitation extended to the school, explained that the loop's rule forbidding freshman participation on varsity teams would not handicap players here who have played during their first year, but that no freshmen could be used in the future.

The athletic board members, Dr. W. H. Thompson, chairman, Dr. Edgar A. Holt, Prof. R. J. Maxwell, L. D. Crenshaw and Coach Sed Hartman, granted a unanimous and enthusiastic approval to the step, characterizing it as the most important advance made by Omaha university since it became a municipal school in 1931.

"It is a tribute to the school and to the excellent progress made

Three Cards Make Conference Eleven

Three Cardinal gridgers were honored last Saturday by being placed on the N. I. A. A. conference team selected by coaches and officials. Jimmy James, end; Howard Sorenson, tackle; and Gene Hoover, halfback, the men chosen, are all seniors and were important cogs in the great University of Omaha machine that brought the school its first conference football championship in four years.

Honorable mention was given to Norman Sorenson, end; Hummel, guard; Johnk, center; and Peary, halfback.

The all-conference team selection:

End—Eschenbrenner, Chadron.
Tackle—H. Sorenson, Omaha.
Guard—Graham, Kearney.
Center—Punches, Peru.
Guard—Lewis, Peru.
Tackle—Miller, Chadron.
End—James, Omaha.
Quarterback—Worthing, Chadron.
Halfback—Hoover, Omaha.
Halfback—Storey, Peru.
Fullback—Gast, Wayne.

A FORWARD STEP

THE decision of the faculty committee on athletics to approve Omaha's entrance into the North Central Conference is to be commended by all those sincerely interested in the University.

Joining the North Central will make it possible for the Cardinals to pit their strength and skill against some of the finest teams in the midlands. This should do much to create more interest in both the Cardinals and the University itself. Membership in the North Central means that the University will now associate with schools having similar ideals and following similar practices regarding the place of athletics in the University curriculum.

Omaha's entry into the North Central Conference is by far the most important development that has taken place at the University this year. The invitation to join the conference is in itself a tribute to the sportsmanlike way in which athletic teams have been handled at Omaha University the past four years. A new era in athletics at Omaha University is about to be unfolded. One can readily perceive that the athletic department is keeping step with other departments as Omaha University continues its rapid advance in the educational world.

STUDENT ACTIVITY

A PROBLEM on this campus is that of these many fine, capable students, who because of their efficiency are overloaded with outside activities until, depleted in energy, they are losing those characteristics which made them positive personalities, and they are no longer themselves, but someone else trying desperately to live up to their former reputation and keep up to that high standard of grades and

Some Ideas That Might Help,
But Probably Won't

By MARTIN K. SPECKTER

One of the interesting legends told to us by the Indians made us stop and think. (Ed. note: Hooray!) At one time, the story goes, all the American Indians spoke one language. (And the people conversed in one tongue.) Once the Indians held a huge conference, and one of the leading chiefs arose to address the crowd. He stood up in all his dignity and looked towards the sky. He saw a huge bird coming from the east. (And they built them a huge tower, which was to reach to the heavens and close the flood-gates against another deluge.) Immediately all the pow-wow delegates sprang up and stared at the bird, which was now almost directly overhead. There was great confusion, and as the bird came closer some Indians turned to the west to watch its further flight. (And every man made brick and lime, and some were masons and some were carpenters.)

As the shadow of the huge bird fell upon the breathless group, its wings made much noise, and the Indians broke into loud speech, but the East could not speak to the West. (And when the tower was quite high, there arose a storm with much thunder, and the tower crashed to the earth. And there were those who were frightened and threw themselves upon the ground, and when they arose, there was Babel.)

One legend is laid where Ohio is now. The other one is where Babylonia used to be. But one almost believes that there must have been a common origin for the legends—if not for the people.

The Omaha Indians had no "big chief." The head men were men who presided over specific duties, much as do our school department heads, or the deans of the various colleges.

Carrying the idea out to its best conclusion, the Indian motto was "the best man for the job." We might do worse than follow the Omaha example in regimenting our offices to capable men.

The Student Council has had a report on the expenditures of The Gateway, which will be issued to the students in the next issue.

capability in school activities, which they set for themselves when they entered as freshmen.

They are interested in the school, and we appreciate it, but in attempting to do too much, they are finally getting to the place where they are doing no one thing well. They will, of course, get through and we will remember them. They have made themselves too valuable for us to forget them quickly. But they are losing their vitality, are going on sheer will power, and when it is all over will find that because of having driven themselves too far, they will not be on their toes and ready to compete. Psychiatrists are warning us, suggesting perhaps that these fine students keep themselves vital and capable to face a world which so needs them.

STUDENT FORUM

To the Editor of The Gateway:

(Contributions to the Student Forum must be signed, but The Gateway will withhold names upon request.)

It is a deplorable state of affairs which enables a member of the faculty to so far abuse his authority as a disciplinarian as to use it for the redress of personal grievances. I refer to the suspension of a student, from attendance in any classes, for reasons which appear to be rather inconsequential. The injustice of using authority to salve an affront to one's ego is, to say the least, unwise. Furthermore, such an action affects the entire student body.

The right to a free expression of opinion is expressly denied by such action. To the unfairness of penalizing the student by withholding his attendance in classes is added that of increasing the burden upon his instructors who must help him make up that work.

Surely faculty and student differences of opinion can be settled without reference to such methods. It seems to the writer that persons who abuse authority should be restricted in their right to exercise it.

Signed.

Christmas Issue of Babel Appears

Versions of the Biblical story of Christ's birth in six foreign languages are the feature of the Christmas issue of "Babel," foreign language department paper. Latin, French, Spanish, Italian, German and Greek are represented, with accompanying illustrations by Philip Steel. The stories as printed will later be recorded on the Ediphone for use in the Foreign Language Seminar. The purpose of the paper is to familiarize foreign language students not only with the language they are studying, but with other languages as well, and to increase their general knowledge and interest in them. In this respect the paper has a direct and useful connection with the Seminar in Room 10B.

"Babel" is issued every month and distributed free of charge to any persons interested in it. It is composed of excerpts from articles on current events in foreign newspapers, and of contributions from foreign language students. At present there is no regular publication staff, but any contributions volunteered will be welcomed.

Encourage Xmas Lighting Contest

Omaha University students are urged to encourage their parents to enter the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas lighting contest by Archie Bailey, secretary of the Junior Chamber, in a letter to The Gateway.

A total of $250 in cash is given as prizes, with $40 and a year's possession of a silver trophy as the grand prize. The city will be divided into four zones for the contest and cash prizes will be awarded the winners in each zone.

VACATION CALENDAR OF GREEK FORMAL DANCES

Thursday, December 20—Gamma Sigma Omicron at the Chermot.

Journalists Frolic At Xmas Gathering

Members of the Board of Student Publications and The Gateway celebrated at a "hot dish" dinner Thursday evening, in the Women's Faculty building. Novel gifts were presented to the thirty guests who attended.

Honor guests were Dr. and Mrs. Wm. D. Maclay, Dr. and Mrs. V. Royce West, Dr. Lyman Harris, Miss Harriet Hicks, and Mr. Joel Thompson.

Fay Lane, Virginia Lee Long, and Franklin Buxton were members of the committee in charge.

Dramatic Classes Present Comedy

"Neighbors," a one-act comedy by Zona Gale, will be staged in the University auditorium on December 16 as the monthly production of the day and extension dramatic classes.

The play will be directed by Sylvan Frankel. The players in the cast include Jack Temin, Catherine Phillips, Doris Miller, Virginia Case, Anne Slaughtauer, Pearl Myers, Alta Triput, and June Pratt.

Several dramatic readings will be included on the program. Mary Owen will give "Madame Butterfly," and Betty Fellman will portray "Columbine." Myrna George and Doris will also give readings.

The dramatic classes are directed by Mrs. Jean Jarmin.

German Club Xmas Party Next Monday

A Christmas party was decided on at the German club meeting Wednesday noon, December 12. It will be held in the Women's Faculty building Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

The program will consist of eating and singing (mostly singing). All members are expected to bring a 10-cent present, which will be exchanged around a Christmas tree, producing the true Xmas atmosphere.

Plans for the sponsoring of a Declamatory Contest among the Omaha high schools and an International Carnival to be held in the near future, were discussed and tabled until after the holidays. German Christmas songs closed the program.

THE KEYHOLE

With Xmas just around the corner (note: Republicans) you can expect plenty of the well known "breakups" . . . it seems to be an old trick that works very successfully . . . Correspondent No. 3 reports that Fitch is apparently "that way" about Cliff Anderson . . . at least it seemed so Saturday night . . . And then again No. 3 reports that Ray Larson has that awful habit of running 'round trying to bite dogs . . . Correspondent No. 1 reports that the Phi Delt pledge president has not received her pledge pin as yet and is very curious as to the delay . . . In case you don't already know, Carrol Challman has a large birthmark on her right leg (score one) . . . that reminds me of the Sig Chi who has freckles on her back . . . never mind who . . . Ye Ole Keyholer himself (note Xmas lingo) is pleased to report that Race is setting in very well with his steady . . . he now has access to her car . . . Verne Sunderland seems to have traces of that "rugged individualism" we hear so much about (or heard about) . . . "I'm too intellectual to live in this world, happily"—says Verne . . . Ask Bert Maris and G. Shackelford about their membership in the Minnesota Nudist colony . . . And again from Mr. Anonymous, "wonder why Bob Butts is always talking about Alyce Weir?" . . . George Knipprrath just made arrangements with Annette Lloyd for the week-end . . . he's going around and warning everyone to keep still about his past . . . it's a good idea . . . The Gammas, Sig Chis, Pi Os and Alpha Chis will have their inning during vacation . . . Hope everyone has a good time New Year's eve . . . See you next year . . . s'long!

CLASS ENROLLMENT REACHES NEW PEAK

The Community Class at Council Bluffs, conducted by Dr. V. H. Vartanian of the Philosophy Department, has reached an enrollment of one hundred and sixty-two. These series of lectures on "Christ in the New World Order" are being sponsored by a joint committee, representing the civic and the religious organizations of the city. It meets every Monday night, from 7:30 to 9:15, in the Railroad Y. M. C. A. Building. Three more lectures will be given in this series.

Much Activity Shown by Faculty Members

Did you know that thirty-three faculty members have reported that they have given 404 addresses, talks, and recitals, and that a conservative estimate of their combined audiences was in excess of 45,000 people? Twenty-one faculty members gave fifty-eight educational radio talks? Students rendered the University a generous service, giving a large number of programs in and out of the city?

Potential students were contacted by the professors by means of special projects? The newspapers printed 12,000 column inches of news in connection with University activities and personnel, and the publicity office sent out about 800 news releases? The University also distributed about 15,000 pieces of printed matter, such as catalogs, bulletins, and announcements? Twenty-two articles by ten members of the faculty were accepted for publication in professional journals and the press? Twenty-three members of the faculty maintained seventy-two affiliations with professional and learned societies?

A long speech is one that goes "yawn and yawn."

APPROVE ENTRANCE INTO NORTH CENTRAL

by our athletic department, board members agreed, "and should meet with the whole-hearted approval and support of the entire community."

The announcement of immediate affiliation with the North Central was accompanied by a statement that Omaha would not drop out of the Nebraska Intercollegiate League in which they have competed for the past four years.

The basketball schedule for the coming season and the football card announced for 1935 by Coach Sed Hartman indicate that the school will be a contender for championships in the N. I. A. A. and the N. C. C. in both sports.

In the cage sport the Cards will meet all Nebraska Intercollegiate teams, Kearney, Peru, Wayne and Chadron, and will play Morningside, North Dakota U., North Dakota State, South Dakota U., and the Iowa State Teachers in the North Central, omitting only South Dakota State.

The football lineup also includes all members of the Nebraska loop, and Morningside, South Dakota State, South Dakota U., and North Dakota in the faster league. Home basketball games will be played in the Central high gym.

Omaha's entrance into the North Central marks a definite step up the athletic ladder and will mean that Cardinal teams will meet stronger opposition in the next few years than they have ever before encountered.

Some members of the N. C. C. include Big Ten opponents on their schedules. North Dakota U., the Cards' opening grid foe last season, met the national champion Gophers of Minnesota in a later tilt, and will play them again next year.

The North Central formerly included Creighton university and other members of the Missouri Valley conference, and is considered by many sports observers to be stronger than Creighton's loop.

CRIMINOLOGY CLASS VISITS PENITENTIARY

The meeting of Gus Miller, first football and basketball coach at Omaha university, featured a trip to Lincoln, where the Nebraska state penitentiary and the Hawthorne reformatory were visited Monday, November 26, by 26 students from Dr. T. Earl Sullenger's Criminology class.

Miller, now head of the reformatory, in a brief address before the class, related incidents dealing with Omaha University's first athletic teams and also told of his experiences with reformatory inmates.

Dakota Fans Are Basketball Minded As Climate Puts Damper on Grid Game

By CECIL DeLONG

In joining the N. C. C., we meet with people who are basketball minded. For this attitude, there is no explanation excepting the climate, and that in itself should be sufficient.

I speak particularly of the Dakotas, whose fans, with the exception of those in the southeast corner of South Dakota, favor basketball over football, if one may judge by the gate receipts. This is particularly true of the high schools, and although somewhat altered the attitude carries over to a large degree into the universities and colleges, who, in spite of developing fine football teams and developing plenty of enthusiasm for those teams, football never supersedes basketball, and the basketball star remains the hero when football stars are forgotten.

We are familiar with the sight of a group of small boys playing football. In the Dakotas one is much more apt to see a similar group practicing basketball.

I blame the weather, and I am inclined to think that most anyone would lose his enthusiasm for a football game in the face of a sweeping northwest wind coming over those bleak prairies at a temperature which defies one's school spirit and dampens his ardor. One freezes, literally. (I speak from experience.) Early in my high school experience, I was exposed to a football enthusiast, a football alumnus of Omaha University, who somewhat instilled in me an interest in football which carried me through each season without missing a game, although at times I felt that I was a social misfit.

It doesn't take many years of continual absence from football games to lose interest in them, and the fans very logically turn to basketball, lauding, praising, boosting it, and creating stars who, upon entering the universities and colleges, are sifted and formed into impregnable teams whose every muscle and fibre, backed by the intense enthusiasm of the school, backed by the traditional ardor of the people, play basketball for all there is in it.

That is what our boys are facing. They'll need our support.

AIN'T IT SO?

The student gets the paper,
The school gets the fame,
The printer gets the money,
But the staff gets the blame.

Extension Division Conducts Program

The Extension Division of the Municipal University of Omaha is conducting the program for the School Administrators' Conference and Teachers' Forum at Denison, Iowa, Friday evening, December 14, and Saturday morning, December 15. Superintendent L. P. Sewell will be host. Dr. W. H. Thompson will speak on the subject of "The Pedagogical Bully—The School Examination" at the panel discussion on "Is the Textbook Out-of-Date?" over which President W. E. Sealock, chairman, will preside.

This is the third of a series of nine conferences sponsored by the Municipal University of Omaha. The next conference in this series will be an observational conference at Blair, Nebraska, February 6, 1935. The theme will be "Keeping the School Adjusted to the Changing Social and Economic Order."

Students Predict Weather

Geography students are learning to predict the weather with a fairly good degree of accuracy, according to Prof. Hammer, Associate Professor of Education. The class, beginning with November 15, has been receiving daily weather calendars issued by the Chicago Weather Bureau. They will get these charts for six months.

Weather predictions for four days are posted in room 2 of Joslyn hall.

Pi O's, Sig Chi's Still Undefeated

In the round robin volley ball tournament, the Sig Chi and Pi O teams are the only undefeated teams and will play for the championship next Monday. The Pi O's beat the Kappa squad December 6 with a score of 35-29 and the Sig Chi's won over the Gammas the same night by a score of 30-10. Last Monday the Barbarians downed the Gammas at noon 26-17, the Sig Chi team won by a close margin of two over the Braves, the score being 42-40, and the Barbarians took the Kappas 21-17. Wednesday the Sig Chi's beat the Kappas 40-30 at a noon game and in the afternoon games the Braves tied the Barbarians 30-30 and the Pi O's defeated the Gammas by a score of 31-12.

The remaining games to be played are the Pi O's vs. the Sig Chi's, and Braves vs. the Kappas this coming Monday. The Braves played the Pi O's yesterday noon and the Pi O's again played the Barbarians in the afternoon. The Gammas and Kappas also played yesterday afternoon. So far, the Sig Chi's and Pi O's have remained undefeated, with the Sig Chi's having only one more game to win to be awarded the championship and the pie that is to go to the winning team. The Braves have won all of their tilts except two, one a tie and one a defeat, the Barbarians have won all of their except two, one a tie and one a defeat, the Kappas have lost all of theirs, and the Gammas have also lost all games.

GEORGE HARTMAN PICKS ALL-CONFERENCE TEAM

George Hartman, ex-35, former football, basketball, and track star, sent the Gateway his selection of an all-conference team as it appeared in the Lincoln Journal-Star. Having seen all the N. I. A. A. Games, George picked the following players:

Johnk, Omaha U., center.

Lewis, Peru, right guard.

Miller, Chadron, right tackle.

James, Omaha, right end.

Loder, Omaha, quarterback.

Worthington, Chadron, halfback.

Hoover, Omaha, halfback.

Gast, Wayne, fullback.

Honorable Mention—Ends: Sorenson, Omaha; Carmichael, Peru; Tackles: Gardner, Omaha; Moody, Chadron. Guards: Hummel, Omaha; Nitter, Chadron. Center: Panches, Peru. Backs: Story, Peru; Kunkle, Wayne; Christensen, Chadron; Peary, Omaha.

Science Prof Predicts Heavy Winter; Plans to Come Back in Near Future

By MARTIN K. SPECKTER

Biological note: Dr. Leslie Garlough, who believes we may be living in an inter-glacial period, told his class in beginning biology this week that he would like to come back in 50 thousand years.

"By that time," Dr. Garlough stated, "this place might be covered with ice a mile high."

University Teacher Stages Comeback. Garlough Sleeps 50 Thousand Years. Says 'Is It Cold Enough For You?' Goes Back Where He Came From, In Disgust.

Dear Doc Garlough, I saw you the other day, digging your way to the top of the ice heap. I must admit the sight of such frantic digging was certainly startling. First of all I saw a splash of red, and against a background of white ice that red sure did stand out. Then I saw something that looked like a pitchfork or a shovel, and when you stop and think it over, Doc, only one kind of being looks red and carries a pitchfork, so you can't blame me if I yelled and ran.

I watched you from the top of the Science Hall (by the way, the old building hasn't changed a bit, has it? It seems the older it gets the better it gets. Of course, the stairs are a bit wobbly and the walls tremble if there is a breeze, but the same things were true in 1934, weren't they, Doc? Or in 1924, for that matter), and I never saw much frantic energy in all my life (and I'm over 51,019 years old). It seemed almost as though you didn't appreciate warmth and comfort (I'm giving you the benefit of all the doubts by saying both "warmth" and "comfort"), and your digging sure amused me.

I saw you climb out of that hole (by the way, how in the world did you ever get at the BOTTOM of the ice?) and then you looked around. The drug store was still there. So was Howard Wilcox's copy of the Ahamo in the magazine rack. There still wasn't any parking place at the science building, and some wag had put a sign on the building, "Don't Stop On the Ice."

That fearful noise you heard coming from Room 102 was the last survivor of the Municipal University German club practicing the German songs for the 52,000th

Annual German Declamatory Contest. I heard you start to whistle "The Missouri Waltz" and it was then I knew who you were.

I wanted terribly to go down and greet you, but Dr. Derbyshire wouldn't let me out of lab, so I kept on dissecting my Lepidoptera Auntjemmas. Good old Lepidoptera! We knew it well and full, didn't we, Doc? At least, you knew it well, and I knew it full.

And that class in Advanced Ear and Lip Training, Doc! I knew just how you felt about it. In one thousand years the class still hadn't got farther than low C, and it was pretty terrible. But, Doc, we shouldn't complain, not after we remember those terrible wise-cracks we were always yelling in biology class.

You sure laid yourself open that time you said man could do everything that bird could do, didn't you? And that fellow shouted, "Yeah, everything but sit on a barbed wire fence."

Well, you must have seen some strange sights. Especially the cold. Of course, I was used to it, because I spent a lot of time in The Gateway office when the furnace wasn't functioning.

But then you weren't used to it. Don't ask me how come I was still there. I think it was that ninth assignment you gave us, and I was just completing it.

I gather you didn't think it was worth while to remain here. I saw you go to the edge of the hole and bend down.

"Lower away!" I heard you shout. You got in and down you went. (I'm sorry if this is embarrassing, doctor, but a reporter must tell what he sees.)

I would have followed you, Doc, but I wasn't sure where you were going. It wouldn't have been any use in my leaping from the frying pan into the, pardon me, into the fire, would it?

Besides, all my shovels were broken a long time ago.

Note by Dr. Garlough: Dear Speckter, I changed your stingy 1,000 years to 50,000. I expect to be as good at 50,000 as now, if I last 1,000. By that time the difference won't mean much to me. But it does to the ice.

Dear Dr. Garlough: It does to The Gateway, too.

Dr. Nickum Warns Pre-Med Students

With his speech clearly voicing a warning to all half-heartedly interested pre-medical students, Dr. Oliver C. Nickum, clinical assistant in medicine from the Nebraska University College of Medicine, spoke to the Pre-medical Club on "Medicine as a Career" Friday morning, December 7. With him were two junior medical students, Mr. Delmar Hills, and Mr. Donald Koser, who gave their impressions as pre-medical and medical students.

Since only approximately one-eighth of all applicants to a medical school are accepted, Dr. Nickum gave this advice: "A student must make an inventory of himself as to his adaptability, his mental and physical health, and whether he believes he is the type of doctor he would want for himself."

Miss Ward Aids Library

Out-of-date chemistry books in the Omaha Public Library were discarded Friday, December 7, after a thorough investigation of books on that subject by a committee of the Omaha section of the American Chemical society. Miss Nell Ward, associate professor of chemistry, was on the committee.

en hand. This time the scoreboard read: Omaha 6, Chadron 2.

The boys that wore the Cardinal red this season boosted their colors into the North Central with very little help from Omaha fandom, either from the university or the city as a whole. They did not receive the support that a championship club is entitled to, but they went on to win.

There were none in the stands when Loder, a grand freshman playing a grand game, quietly backed up into the shadows of his own goal posts in a drizzling rain at Grand Forks and booted a muddled ball 78 yards to pull his team out of a hole.

There were few in the stands to see Pearey, his lips drawn back over his teeth in a snarl, plunging and sliding through ankle-deep water at Wayne to place the ball on the nine-yard line. Few to see the futile look in his eyes as the pouring rain thwarted his single-handed attack on the Wildcat forward wall.

Of course these were out-of-town contests and it was probably impossible for Cardinal rooters to make the trip. But there was no excuse for some of the turnouts at League park.

With the exception of the girls' pep squad, attendance was poor at the home contests. There were a few feeble cheers when the thundering heels of Claude Hender carried the ball three times over the Kearney deadline and a murmur of approval as swivel-hipped Gene Hoover weaved for 65 yards and a touchdown against Peru, but nothing like the vocal approval that should have greeted either of the fine displays of football talent.

There is a new basketball and football sun coming up over the Omaha horizon. Omaha will soon appear against such schools as North and South Dakota State and North and South Dakota university, as well as Morningside and Cedar Falls. Your teams took the school up there in athletics. Why don't you come out and help keep it there?

Omaha Wrestlers Start Grunting

"Hey, you're choking me."

"Now, listen, this is how it's done, 'cause I saw Mountain Dean do it this way. How about it, coach?"

"Gee, it's cold in here; close that door!"

With these utterances, the 1934 wrestling season was ushered in. Coach Howard Sorenson greeted ten hug and grunters at first work-outs in the gym, and expressed a desire for more men to enter in wrestling competition for places on the team.

Sorenson is dickering with the Nebraska Uni. and with the Iowa U. wrestling teams for a match, and this should be an added incentive for those trying out for the team.

The squad will be taught a few holds by "Big Brother" Sorenson, and "Little Brother" Sorenson will also give them some helpful advice.

Those on the squad thus far are Norman Sorenson, former state high school wrestling champ; Loren Gammon, Lewis Leigh, Kenny Hargrove, Frank Crawford, Harold Johnk, Lou Diamantis, Robert Frink, Royce Brown, and George De Nault.

Women's Cage Play Opens After Recess

The women's basketball season sponsored by W. A. A. will open immediately after the Christmas recess. General practices will be held Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday nights from 7:00 to 9:00, and a tournament between the teams entered will climax the season.

The many teams will be coached by the Advanced Physical Education class. Coaches are Mary Rigg, Maxine Steincamp, Mary Brown, Anne Raymond, Rose Weber, and Eleanor Larson. An alumnae team will be entered also.

Alice Hillstrom is basketball sport head, and those interested in playing should sign with her or Miss Diamond, before Tuesday.

CARDINALS TO PLAY NODAK QUINT HERE

Lowell Curtis may drop back to guard, with Wilkinson, Baade and Patterson in the front line, while Elliott, Pearey, Johnk and Nelson will probably share the other guard spot. If Baade does not start Johnk will probably jump center and drop back to guard after the ball is in play.

Omaha's acceptance into the North Central Conference automatically cut the Card basketball squad and as a result Coach Sed Hartman will not have to go through the annual ceremony of sifting hopeful candidates.

For the ruling that went into effect immediately was that which prohibited freshmen on varsity teams. This cut from the squad Dale Wolf, Maurice Krauth, Ray Bolte, Gerald Gardener, Claude Hender, and Royce Brown, all of whom would have been certain of seeing some varsity play. These men will get plenty of experience nevertheless, for the freshman basketball team is allowed to play six games and if scheduled with tough teams will give them the necessary development for first squad material next winter.

The first squad now consists of Captain Lowell Curtis, Marlin Wilkinson, Lloyd Patterson, John Kozak and Kenneth Slump, forwards; Carl Baade and Harold Johnk, centers; Bill Nelson, Bob Elliott, Leo Pearey, Bob Brown, and Frank Hummel, guards. During Hartman's stay in Chicago, De Thompson drilled the team and had Curtis and Wilkinson at forwards, Baade at center, and Elliott and Pearey at guards. Patterson has been bothered by his trick knee and has not been taking any chances with the injury that kept him out on the sidelines part of last season.

Little Lowell Curtis, high scorer of last year's championship team, has been showing mid-season form in early practices and gives every indication of continuing where he left off in 1933-34.

Coach Hartman announced that the Card quintet will be competing for the N. I. A. A. and the N. C. C. titles—this being possible because enough games have been carded in both leagues.

Twice Recognized as Champs

The N. I. A. A. conference met at Lincoln last Saturday and officially recognized Omaha as the 1933-34 basketball champions and the 1934 football champions.

MEDS TAKE TEST

Seventeen pre-medic students took the Medical Aptitude test given by Miss Nell Ward, associate professor of chemistry. The results of these tests cannot be made public, due to the rules of the American Medical Association, under whose direction the test was given. Pre-medic students over the entire country took the examination.

Helen Margaret Speaks to Class

Helen Margaret, author of the poem "The Trumpeting Crane," spoke before the extension book reviewing class taught by Mrs. Mildred Gearhart, Thursday afternoon.

RHOADS HEADS ASS'N.

Dr. J. H. Rhoads was recently elected president of the Association of Omaha and Council Bluffs Commercial Teachers. Miss Dolly Burgess was voted vice-president, and Ione C. Duffy of Van Sant School, secretary-treasurer.

A. J. Chalupsky, '32, is now teaching science, mathematics, and manual training at the Elba, Neb., high school.

Serves on Radio Committee

Mrs. Leslie F. Johnson, English instructor, has been chosen by the National Council of Teachers of English to serve on its Radio Committee, it was disclosed in a recent report. The aim of the committee is the education of students toward a more critical attitude toward radio programs.

Mrs. Johnson was also requested recently by Union Pacific officials to make up a series of graded bulletins in English for use among its employees.
